[Write one page that

- identifies a paper in any field of economics, finance, or marketing that uses a dynamic structural model (include a link to this paper),
- specifies a concrete research question that can be answered using this model),
- outlines a bare-bones version of the model that is just rich enough for a nontrivial analysis of this question, and
- specifies the type of data that will be simulated to estimate it (these do not have to be the type of data used in the paper).]
